

Senate Takes Important Action On Several Controversial Issues

The Student Senate began to assume its role as the campus governing body with some definite action on certain controversial subjects in its Jan. 18 session.

In initial action of approval for organization constitutions, the Senate approved a revised GDI constitution and approved a constitution for the newly formed library science fraternity, Alpha Beta Lambda.

Two representatives of the Mathematics Society were asked to submit their constitution again with the purpose more clearly stated.

The ESP Club, the Book Club, and the Students for Democratic Society were again given attention. One senator stated that he personally felt there was no place on campus for the clubs.

Although there were no faculty representatives present, the Senate adviser pointed out that rejections without reason inferred something wrong. No further action on the clubs' approval was taken.

Senator James Neal announced the OTS program, officers' training school, will be held March 18 in the East Ballroom of the Union. Letters will be sent to all organizations on campus informing them of the training and the date.

In other Senate business, Dialogue was discussed. Senator Sue Shew moved that Dialogue must make definite moves toward an organizational statement or otherwise disband. The motion was passed.

The Senate heard a motion from the AWS senator for approval for women students to wear slacks to supper. The motion was withdrawn when it was made clear that the AWS could go to the Student-Faculty committee without Senate approval.

Several motions and heated discussions concerning the dress regulations finally brought a passed motion made by Senator Victor Jennings to have the Student-Faculty Committee review dress regulations.

Board of Regents Announces Staff

At its January meeting, the Board of Regents approved eight staff changes recommended by Dr. Robert P. Foster, president.

Resignations of Mrs. Velda Adwell, night housekeeper in Roberta Hall, and Mrs. Susan Boyd, part-time instructor in the Horace Mann Laboratory School, were accepted.

The following appointments were approved: Mrs. Fern Rogers, night housekeeper in Hudson Hall; Charles Hanks, maintenance crew; Mrs. Angela Wilson, business office accountant; Mrs. Pauline Hill, night housekeeper, Roberta Hall; Robert Brower, assistant to the Union director, and Donnis Allen, custodian.

Board members present included Garvin Williams, president, and William Phares, Maryville; C. F. Russell, Trenton; W. M. C. Dawson, Grant City, and J. P. Morgan, Chillicothe. Luther Belcher, business manager, also attended the meeting.

Before adjournment President Tom Frank made it clear to the Student Senate that the confusion caused by too much informality in the meetings would no longer be permitted.

College Publishes Research Studies By Faculty Men

The Northwest Missouri State College Studies committee has published recently, "A Study of James Thurber's Fables," by Mr. Virgil Albertini of the English department and "The Researcher: His Competencies," by Dr. Ronnie Moss of the mathematics department.

The Studies originally was known as the February Lectures. These were oral lectures given on Sunday afternoons here at the college. In 1937, these lectures were published, and the oral lectures were dropped. At the end of each year, four lectures were published in one bound volume. The library, however, found this difficult to catalogue so the present method of having each lecture published separately was adopted.

Coming from every department on campus, the Studies have to be approved first by a committee headed by Dr. Irene Mueller. Committee members are Dr. William Tackett, Dr. Frank Grube, and Dr. Kathryn Riddle. After their joint approval, the manuscript is printed in booklet form.

The Studies are sent to more than 200 colleges and universities on an exchange program.

Dr. Mueller urges any faculty member who is interested in furthering the program to submit a manuscript to the committee.

Dairy Processing Program to Be Initiated at College Next Fall

Northwest Missouri State College next fall will inaugurate the nation's first two-year terminal program for the training of dairy processing technicians.

The pilot course of study was approved recently at the regular meeting of the Board of Regents. Financed cooperatively by MSC, state and Federal agencies, the new program has been approved by the Missouri Department of Education, Vocational Division. Governmental subsidizing of the project comes as a result of the Vocational Act of 1963.

"We will be able to take the student through every phase of the dairy processing business from the time the cows are milked right through the steps of clarifying, homogenizing, pasteurizing, standardizing and packing of fluid milk," emphasized Dr. John Beeks, chairman of MSC's department of agriculture and innovator of the program.

Students will also receive training in processing of ice cream, soft cheese, and hard cheese. "Quality control will be stressed," Dr. Beeks noted.

Approximately 20 new students will be added to the program each year. Although intended as a two-year terminal course of study for the preparation of technicians for the dairy industry, approximately 75 per cent of the course work will be applicable for a college degree. During summers between the two years of study, students in the program will be placed in on-the-job-training positions at dairies throughout the area.

In addition to learning how to operate a large variety of technical equipment, students in the program will learn maintenance and repair of equipment.

Most of the dairy equipment needed to implement the program is on order. A 50 by 30 foot building to house the processing plant and serve as a classroom and laboratory will be erected adjacent to the present modern milking parlor recently constructed on the R. T. Wright College Farm.

A full-time dairy technician with experience in the dairy business will be hired to manage the program.

The college already possesses a modern dairy herd operation which produces Grade A milk with the use of pipeline milkers. The present herd of 50 registered Holstein and Jersey milk cows will be increased to 75 in the near future, according to Dr. Beeks.

When the new program is implemented, the dairy processing plant will produce about 20,000 pounds of fluid milk per week, enough to serve the needs of the college campus. Limited amounts of cottage cheese and ice cream will also be produced.

Kappa Delta Pi Fraternity Inducts New Officer, Class

Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary education fraternity, held its annual initiation January 17 in the East Ballroom of the J. W. Jones Union building.

Norma Tibbetts, president, presided at the meeting and initiation. Wendee Beam, junior, was elected treasurer to fill the vacancy of Kay Elder, senior. Juniors Mike Miller and Mary Asbell will represent the organization at the national convocation to be held March 6-9 in Denver, Colo.

Initiated according to the organization's basic requirements of a 3.0 scholastic average, outstanding leadership qualities, and high educational ideals and pursuits are, from Maryville: Connie Young, Gail Wiederholt, Mary Asbell, Carol Easterhaus, Janet Nielsen, Mary Ann Combs, Arlene Ortrander, Mike Miller, and Vicki Hanna.

Other Missouri pledges include Linda Sue Hoffmeyer, Diane Didlo, Marilyn Meyer, and Nancy Pickett, St. Joseph; Mary Clark, Marilyn Bowland, Jean Cowger, and Janice Lillard, Savannah; Alberta Uehling and Helen Duvall, Excelsior Springs; Suzanne Mason, Cameron; Marilyn Wieneke, Lathrop; Margaret McCarthy, Stanberry; Anita Shewmaker, Cosby; Phyllis Morris, Mound City; Mary K. Barhem, Liberty; Jane Williams, Maitland; Linda Britt, Smithville; and Pat Tiberghien, Independence.

Initiates from Iowa are Kathleen Griffin, Adair; Marlene Morris, Emerson; Rita Bissell, Corning; Hila Rankin, Colo.; Mary Lumm, Percival; Nona Haywood, Corydon; Linda Justice, Manilla; Ellen Ibbotson, Tingley; Wendee Beam, Farragut; and Anne Morgan, Elliott.

Student Body to Vote For Best Dressed Coed

The student body will vote Friday to help select the finalist in the Best Dressed Coed contest.

Faculty and administration interviewers will select 15 finalists from the original applicants. Students will choose eight from the 15 for final judging Feb. 20 in the Charles Johnson Theater.

'Red Dogs' to Play for Tonight's Dance

The Red Dogs

"Outstanding . . .
And they are Wild"

The sight and sound that young America wants to see and hear will be in Lamkin Gymnasium from 8 p. m. to midnight tonight.

Direct from the Red Dog Inn, the Red Dogs will play a rock dance for MSC students. These extraordinary show-musicians feature the top vocal material of the day, backed by an instrumental array including an organ, trumpets, trombones, saxophones, clarinets, plus guitars and drums.

The Red Dogs have become a top attraction throughout Mid-America. The reason for their fast rise to success is a unique musical ability that reportedly is unparalleled in the "average Rock 'n' Roll band." Offered by this eight-piece group is an electrifying show that creates an excitement reflected in audience reaction from the moment the show begins and never subsides until the conclusion of the performance.

Admission for tonight's Red Dog dance, sponsored by the Union Program Council, is 50c per person. John Price, board chairman, has announced.

Embers Elect Patty Chappell For Honorary Coed Position

Patty Chappell has been named Outstanding Coed by Embers, honorary organization for senior women.

Patty Chappell

The popular honoree is president of Roberta Hall and a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority and Sigma Phi Dolphin, synchronized swimming club.

She came to MSC as a freshman and has ready praise for "a campus that is not too big to be friendly." Although at first reticent about becoming a "Greek" pledge because some people consider them cliquish, she has formed many genuine friendships outside as well as within the sorority. Currently she is scholarship chairman for Tri Sigma.

Planning to graduate in May, Miss Chappell is majoring in elementary education. She will do her practice teaching this semester in Council Bluffs on the kindergarten - first grade level.

As she reflected on experiences at MSC, Miss Chappell expressed the belief that a school-wide policy on tests should be adopted.

"Students should have their tests returned within a week, and the tests should then be discussed in class. I have waited as long as three weeks to have a test returned."

She also commented that there should be a system to clear sidewalks of snow before it becomes packed.

"I'll admit the guys get quite a kick out of seeing the girls slip around," she smiled, "but actually, those icy walks are dangerous."

Miss Chappell, an accomplished swimmer, has helped to teach swimming at Horace Mann school and also has taught swimming and lifesaving classes during summer vacations. She has served as secretary-treasurer of the Synchronized Swimming Club.

Artist B. Burford To Be Exhibitor

Well-known Mid-Western artist Byron Burford, who spent three weeks on campus as Maryville's artist in residence last fall, has been invited to be an exhibitor at the 1968 Biennale in Venice, Italy.

Announcement of Mr. Burford's honor was made by the Smithsonian Institute of Washington, D. C., this year's sponsor of the summer and autumn show, the world's oldest art exhibition.

The Midwest will have its best representation in the Biennale's history. Mr. Ernest Trova, St. Louis, artist, will be another exhibitor. Mr. Norman Geske, director of Sheldon Memorial Museum of Art, Lincoln, Neb., is in charge of organizing the show.

Mr. Burford is a professor of art at the University of Iowa, Iowa City. Among his favorite themes for paintings are war, the circus, children, and "man alone."

Dr. Densil Cooper Returns To Teach Physics Classes

Dr. D. M. Cooper, who has returned to the MSC campus this semester as a member of the physics faculty, studies the department's oscilloscope.

Dr. Densil Cooper, physics instructor, has returned to teach MSC classes after a seven-year absence.

Dr. Cooper taught at MSC in the summer of 1940 and again from 1950 to 1961. While not teaching at MSC, he has taught in a variety of places, including Huron College, Huron, S. D.; State Teachers College, Salisbury, Md.; Pennsylvania State College, and the University of Toledo in Ohio. He has also instructed classes at the Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, D. C.; Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, and the University of Maryland, College Park. Before returning to MSC, he taught at the University of Southern Florida, Tampa.

Dr. Cooper received his BS in education degree from MSC in 1936. He received his masters from the University of Missouri in 1938 and his PhD in 1940. During the summer of 1961, he attended Oakridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oakridge, Tenn.

Before the war, Dr. Cooper did specialized research in the field of cosmic rays. During the war, his specialty was aircraft radar and computers and afterwards, he specialized in solid state electronics circuitry.

Presently, Dr. Cooper teaches general physics courses. In discussing his work, he commented, "I've been long associated with and interested in the work of colleges; I am looking forward to being able to help to develop a program of physics with the new facilities that will benefit a large number of students."

Dr. Cooper, who is quite enthusiastic about playing tennis, remarked, "I play nearly every day in the summer."

Mrs. Cooper, a secretary in the office of the dean of administration, is completing her work on a BS degree in education with a major in English.

Confucius probably never heard of finals. Even with that drawback, he still seemed to have some facsimile thereof in mind when he said: "Shall I tell you what knowledge is? It is to know both what one knows and what one does not know."

In that case, the Stroller is convinced that he can truthfully say that there are many knowledgeable people on this campus.

Three Chinese cheers for finals: Fui! Fui! Fui!

Today the United States Weather Bureau is 98 years old. Something tells the backside of the Stroller that 98 years of weathering is wearing the "in" off of its infallibility.

Did anyone see Loui the Whale in his leotards the Wednesday before finals?

Freddy Freshman is so naive. He thinks a little pot is a tea kettle for munchkins.

Something to think about: When the going gets tough, the tough get going. Who said 'dat, coach?

Maid wanted: Light housework, heavy trash-emptying. Contact Orlo, Tool, or Diver—immediately.

The Stroller understands that occupants of the home management house would like to offer their assistance to anyone who gets stuck in their driveway.

Speaking of trips, ye old Stroller wants to welcome everyone back!

Women Are Mature Enough To Choose How They Dress

Editor's note: The Student-Faculty Affairs Committee is a standing committee that meets as needed. Its members—two faculty representatives, the Dean of Women, the Dean of Men, two senators, and two Union Board members—will meet soon to discuss changes in women's dress regulations at MSC.

Women should be allowed to wear slacks and sweaters to evening meals is the general proposal that AWS members have sent to the Student-Faculty Affairs Committee for consideration.

In order to support their proposal, the AWS dress committee sent a questionnaire last spring to all the women who eat in the college dining halls. Both questions: "Would you wear slacks to dinner if you could?" and "Should the present dress policy be changed?" were answered "yes" by a large majority.

The committee also wrote letters to other colleges to ascertain their policies. They received eight replies, four stating that women were not allowed to wear slacks and four stating that women could wear anything to evening meals.

The main arguments against the issue are that informal dress/leads to informal table manners; social graces like dressing for meals and good table manners are part of one's education, and women dressed in slacks will project a poor image to visitors.

The students who support the issue, however, believe that college women are mature enough to decide for themselves what they want to wear to dinner. If a student does not have late afternoon classes or if she has activities immediately before or after dinner that call for wearing slacks, it would be much more convenient to go to dinner dressed the way she is than to have to return to her room and change into a skirt.

Considering social graces and poor image ideas, one might point out that women do not look any worse in neat slacks and sweaters than they do in short, tight skirts or short, baggy shift dresses. The casual clothes that many women wear to classes are not formal enough to make table manners any better than they would be if women wore slacks to dinner.

Visiting dignitaries on campus are much more likely to see students in the Den, where slacks are permitted, than in the cafeterias. Furthermore, there wouldn't be very many campus guests who would be shocked to see women eating in slacks. In fact, they might be favorably impressed that this school is progressive enough to allow women to dress to meet their needs.

Certainly women students at MSC are responsible enough to use mature judgment and good taste in developing their personal appearance while they are also meeting the demands of convenience and college sponsored activities in which they participate.

Letter to Subscribers

Dear Subscribers,

Many times during the semester the Northwest Missourian staff receives notices from a post office that a Missourian subscriber has moved.

When the post office sends us such a notice it costs us 15c—15c which we think could be put to better use.

From now on, we hope you will be thoughtful enough to send a message to the circulation manager, Northwest Missourian, and let us change your address. This procedure will assure you of not missing an issue.

Thank you for your cooperation,
Eugene McCombs
Business Manager

Chatterbox

Do you have a couple of neat outfits? A good suit or dress? A formal?

Do you wear short skirts, fad hose, and a little make-up?

Why not enter the Best Dressed Coed contest? Maybe you'll win and have your picture in the back-to-school issue of Glamour magazine!

Seniors, remember to check the job interview schedules frequently and arrange for appointments with Mrs. Esther Sellers in the Placement Office.

She can also provide for you information about openings throughout the country in nearly every field.

Special to Suitcase Sue: Before making plans to leave every Friday noon, check the list of activities scheduled by the Union Board and other organizations.

Why not plan to spend a few weekends on campus this semester and become involved in the non-academic side of college life?

Talking about activities, why doesn't everyone join at least one organization this semester?

College is much more fun and meaningful when you are associated with a group that has interests similar to yours.

Is there something about this school that you don't like or would like to see changed?

Do you gripe about not being able to communicate with faculty members or administrators?

Go to Dialogue and meet others who are discussing campus problems with the people who are interested in knowing the students' views on institutional policies.

Although Dialogue is not designed to be an action group, it provides an opportunity for students to talk about problems. As a follow-through, Dialogue sees that problems get channeled in the right direction for action to take place.

Have you been hearing comments about what the Student Senate is and is not doing?

It's about time students find out what their government is all about. Between now and election time, why not attend some Senate meetings and see what it takes to make the Senate an organization that is responsive to students' needs.

Why not start studying the organization of Senate meetings and the structure of its committees? You might like to compete for a post in the Senate.

Welcome back and best wishes for an active semester!

Missourian Policies Announced

As second semester gets under way, the Northwest Missourian staff wishes to set forth a few of the policies on news stories, advertising, and letters to the editor it will follow during the remainder of the school year.

News Stories

In order to meet publishing deadlines, the Missourian staff will use the following deadlines for news stories: feature news — noon Friday; late important news — noon Monday; deadline for unforeseen important news, Tuesday.

News items may be brought or telephoned to the news office in Room 116, Colden Hall. The telephone number is 582-5771.

Advertising

All ads for the Missourian must be turned in on Friday, one week prior to the desired date of publication. Want ads are 75 cents each; display ads are 80 cents per column inch. Student ads must be paid for in advance. If, for some reason, the ad is not run, the money will be refunded.

Since the staff desires to print all the news possible in a limited amount of space, no ads will be accepted that exceed seven inches in height for one or two column ads; five inches for three columns.

Letters to Editors

Letters to the editor should be backed by facts, should be no longer than 100 to 125 words, and should be written in good taste. Editors ask that each writer discuss only one topic per letter.

The Missourian staff will not accept letters to the editor which express disapproval of people. Criticism of ideas may be submitted. The staff makes no changes in letters unless there are grammatical errors or the letters are too long. In such cases, changes are made after consulting the author of the letter.

When commenting on an article which appeared in a previous issue of the Northwest Missourian, the writer should refer to the article, not the author of that article.

All letters should be signed; however, the staff will withhold names on request, although it prefers to print letters with authors' names.

Engagements, Weddings, Births

Engagement announcements will include the couples' names, their home towns or their Greek affiliations.

Wedding announcements will include the same information as engagements plus the date of the wedding.

Birth announcements may be submitted if one or both of the parents are students at MSC. They will include the child's name, parents' name and address, and the date of birth.

Flicks to Be Shown Tonight, Tomorrow

"Behold a Pale Horse" will be shown tonight and "The Heroes of Telemark" will be shown tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Administration Building auditorium.

"Behold a Pale Horse" stars Gregory Peck, Anthony Quinn, and Omar Sharif. This film's crossing of the lives of three men, violently different in all respects, provides crackling drama against the background of post-revolutionary Spain.

"The Heroes of Telemark," starring Kirk Douglas, Richard Harris, Sir Michael Redgrave, and Ulla Jackson, compares to "Guns of Navarone" in a Norwegian setting. This is the story of a group of courageous British commandos who volunteer to destroy a Nazi factory. When their gliders crash, the Norwegian Underground decides to do the job themselves.

Monday Deadline Set for Contest

Northwest State women are invited to enter the nationwide Best Dressed Coed Contest sponsored by Glamour Magazine.

Any coed on campus who can qualify may enter the local contest by picking up an application blank and returning it to the Field Service office. Applications may be obtained in the Union director's office, the Dean of Women's office, the Northwest Missourian office, and the Field Service office and should be returned to the Field Service office by 4:30 Monday.

Former 'Cat Mentor, Henry Iba, To Guide U.S. Olympic Cagers

By David Horsman

MSC's notable claim to fame in the sports world, Henry Iba, recently received his second consecutive appointment as mentor of the United States Olympic basketball squad.

Coach Iba, who has spent his last 33 years at Oklahoma State University, has accepted not only a great honor in the Olympic mentorship, but also a great responsibility to keep alive the 48-game winning streak compiled by the United States Olympic basketball teams. In 1964, he added nine games and another gold medal to the record of the yet unbeaten U. S. roundballers.

Marking the first time for the same coach to direct the U. S. cagers twice in succession, Iba's appointment represents a crown on a career of college coaching that began at Northwest Missouri State.

Iba, an MSC graduate, practically brought the Bearcat basketball team with him when he came to Maryville in 1929 from Classen High School in Oklahoma City, where he already had a state championship and a runner-up position in the national interscholastic tourney on his coaching record. Jack McCracken, an AAU All-American eight times and the AAU's "Greatest Player of All Time" in 1949; Ryland Milner, athletic director at MSC today, and Elmo Wright played under Iba at Classen High and followed him to Maryville.

Coach Milner says of Iba's relations with the players, "His word was law; he never lied to a boy. And as for respect — today he is still 'Mr. Iba' to everybody that ever played for him."

Coach Iba guided the Bearcats to 31 straight victories during his first season and added 11 more the following year for an unprecedented 42 consecutive triumphs — the longest string in college annals at that time. He left MSC at the end of the 1933 season and went to Colorado University, where he coached for a year before going to OSU.

Today, with 782 victories and 302 losses to base his play-making on, Iba is known not only for his success, but also for his style in coaching. His ideas of possession ball and a strict man-to-man defense have permeated chapters in the strategy of basketball.

Coach Iba is a relentless competitor, but he is also a realist. Four years ago, when he first took the U. S. Olympic reins, he warned that "the United States' winning streak can't last forever."

After receiving word of his second appointment, Iba said, "We'll have to get our best available talent and work hard in the six weeks we have for training. And we'd better start now thinking about 1972. It will be even tougher then."

He expects the most demanding competition to come from eight countries at Mexico City this year. Yugoslavia, Russia, and Poland are three prominent opponents that he plans to focus on. Yugoslavia gave the United States its toughest meet in 1964, and Iba says Russia has three outstanding players ranging in height from 6-9 to 7-1. Italy, Brazil, Australia, Japan, and Peru also threaten to give Iba and his team headaches in Mexico City.

But one can't help thinking that U. S. hopes couldn't be in better hands than those of Henry Iba, a man who has so long been an inspiration and a determinant in his sport.

Officials Conduct Test In Volleyball at MSC

The Northwest Missouri Board of Officials conducted a practical test in volleyball here recently.

National judges were Mrs. Martha Bagby, Northeast Missouri State College; Mrs. Marion Morgan, Platte City High School; and Mrs. Dorothy Walker, Northwest Missouri State College.

National ratings were received by Mrs. Betty Walsh, Graceland College; Susan Cornwall, Arkeny, Iowa, and Charlene Hunt, St. Joseph.

A local rating was received by Mary Elsberry, Audubon, Iowa; an associate rating by Karen Jensen, a student at Graceland College; and an intramural rating by Janet Ranniger, Manning, Iowa.

Further tests will be given later in the year, according to Mrs. Walker, volleyball chairman of the board.

Newcomer Tony Masters Has 3-Way Athletic Experience

From amateur status to professional player to coach summarizes the action record of a newcomer to the MSC physical education faculty.

Mr. Tony Masters, who joined the staff in September, has been a letterman in track, basketball, and baseball in college; a professional baseball player; a coach of various sports in three high schools.

Following his graduation from Central High School, St. Joseph, in 1954, he attended St. Joseph Junior College, where he excelled in sports. After two years at the junior college, he signed a short-term contract with the Chicago Cubs' minor league ball club.

Later Mr. Masters obtained his BS degree in Education at MSC, graduating in 1960. He has studied at the University of Colorado and the University of Wyoming, taking work toward his master's degree, which he hopes to complete in the near future.

Concerning his thesis based on a study of recreation for the mentally retarded, Mr. Masters stated, "I'm trying to find what recreation is recommended by professional people for the mentally retarded and am trying to see if state institutions are providing that type of program."

After graduating from MSC, Coach Masters directed high school basketball teams at Easton, Faucett, and Savannah. He was principal of Savannah High School the last semester of last year. Presently, he is supervising physical education at Horace Mann School, is a college coordinator of student physical education teaching, and is serving as assistant baseball coach.

'Cats Break Even In Vacation Series

The Bearcat roundballers took two victories and two defeats in MIAA play over the semester break.

The MSC courtmen whipped Southeast Missouri State 78-73 on Jan. 27. Bob Nelson and Ken Sheridan led the 'Cat attack, Nelson scoring 22 points and Sheridan connecting for 19.

On Jan. 29 the 'Cats scored another MIAA win when they outshot the Rolla Miners 80-73.

The score was tied 10 times in the tightly matched game. Don Sears, Gary Goodson, and Gary Howren formed a well-balanced MSC attack. Sears hit 19 points; Goodson 13, and Howren 18.

Southwest Missouri State rolled to an 82-60 win over MSC on Feb. 3. The outsized Bearcats were never able to pull ahead of the Bears, who are ranked fourth in small college basketball teams.

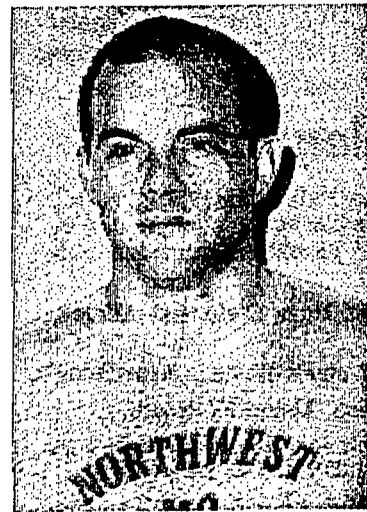

The hot shooting Mules from Central State College handed the 'Cats another defeat in 88-76 style on Feb. 5.

The Mules hit 35 of 65 field attempts for a 53.8 percentage.

The loss dropped the Bearcats to 9-10 for the season and 4-5 in league play. MSC is currently tied with Kirksville for third place in the MIAA.

New Assistant Joins MSC Coaching Staff

Coach Sydney C. Walston, assistant wrestling coach, is a new member of the staff of the physical education department at MSC.

Sydney C. Walston

Mr. Walston, originally from Manchester, Iowa, gained his BS degree at the University of Iowa. His college athletic activities included four years of wrestling in which he received the title of co-captain his senior year. Other wrestling experiences include three years of coaching at Polo Community High School in Illinois.

Mr. Walston is married and has one daughter. His wife is doing graduate work at MSC. In addition to his work with wrestling students, Coach Walston teaches four classes of hygiene, two classes of gymnastics, and one class of weight training.

Instructors Compete On Basketball Court

The faculty basketball team, enrolled in its third year of intramurals at MSC, has a 2-1 record for the season.

The team is made up of 13 faculty members; Myrl Cobb, director of data processing; Bob Cotter, director of alumni activities; David Easterla, biology; Don Hagan, social science; Dr. Harlan Higginbotham, chemistry; Larry Larson, food services; Terry Myers, assistant dean of administration; Ron Noah, education; Dr. Charles Thate, dean of administration; Richard Weaver, speech; Jerry Winsor, speech; Randy Wolcott, assistant director of men's residence halls, and Wayne Van Zomeran, psychology.

Forensic Activities

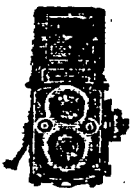

Mia Coupland finished third place in the finals of extemporaneous speaking at the forensic tournament in Pittsburg, Kan., Jan. 27.

She and Terry Lutz won four of six rounds of varsity debate at the tournament.

Psychology Instructor Is New GDI Sponsor

Mr. Wayne VanZomeran, instructor in the department of psychology, has been selected as the new GDI sponsor.

Activities scheduled by GDI for February are an executive board meeting Feb. 10 and a Feb. 20 get-acquainted smoker for interested students.

the standard in twin-lens reflex cameras!

Over the years, more prize-winning pictures have been made with the Rolleiflex than any other camera. And no wonder—only the famous Rolleiflex from Honeywell offers the convenience of a large (2 1/2" x 2 1/2") negative, plus the compactness and ease of operation found in smaller cameras. The Rolleiflex is the standard camera for many of the world's leading professional photographers, yet it's a camera with which an amateur can achieve remarkable results. The widest selection of Rolleiflex models in years is awaiting your inspection. One is certain to be the right camera for you, so please visit us soon!
